

For thousands of years, the healing powers of the Great Salt Lake, America's Dead Sea, have been known to only a few. The Lake has a great history. The Native Americans were the ones who discovered it, lived by it and used it to help with their daily lives. They would carry the wounded, the aged, and the sick to the Lake to bathe in its curative waters. They had great reverence toward the Lake and believed it to be holy. We want to maintain this thought and reverence.

Our Company name Ojavan, is simply Navajo spelled backward. All of our products have Native American names and hold true to what the product can do for us. This gives us an opportunity to not only bring a great all-natural product to the world, but in small ways educate and help people get a little closer to the history of those that were on this land long before us. Maybe, just maybe, it will help people have a little more respect for our earth, and what it can do for our health and lives.

Ojavan's products contain only all natural and organic ingredients and are free from toxins and environmental pollutants.
